Superintendent's Report.

Your committee, knowing that she is expected to report concerning the schools under her care, has very much the sensation that a mother might have in being called upon to publish her opinion of her own children. She would wish to conceal or excuse their faults, and make the most of their virtues.

It has certainly been a pleasant task to visit the schools from time to time, and to watch carefully the progress of the pupils. Nothing could be more delightful than the perfect understanding between the teachers and the Superintendent, who wishes, here and now, to thank them for their hearty coöperation with her in every plan which has been made for the welfare and improvement of the schools.

Although the wheels have not run entirely without friction, there has been no serious trouble in any district. Perhaps in some instances the teachers have had reason to feel that they were not as well sustained by the parents as they might have been. When parents and teachers do not work together, the "house" is certainly "divided against itself," and must fall.

Many of our schools have done excellent work the past year, but no marked improvement may be expected from the schools as a whole, until measures are taken to give all the scholars an equal amount of schooling during the year. Under the present system, the children in the remote districts, who are too far away to avail themselves of the advantages of our Academies, have only a few weeks of instruction in the year. The term is no sooner fairly begun than it is over, and in the long vacation that follows, the pupils are apt to forget the greater part of what they learned when in school. There has been a great deal of talk in previous years upon this subject, and it is to be hoped that the time has now come for action.

The Franklin Arithmetics have been adopted into our schools the past year with excellent results, with the exception of the grammars, the books now in use are very good. When the simple "Language Lessons," published by Swinton and others, are put into the hands of our children instead of the difficult and uninteresting grammar that has been so long a terror to them we may hope for some improvement in the "art of speaking and writing the English language correctly;" an art, valuable, alas! for its rarity, as well as for its excellence and beauty.

No one who has been in the habit of visiting our schools can have failed to notice the destitution of books of reference, maps, globes, and in some instances of suitable black-boards. A little judicious expenditure in this direction would be productive of much good to both teachers and pupils.

We should be wide-awake in regard to the best interests of our schools. Indifference and a mistaken economy in these matters will certainly cost us dearly in the end. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth, more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty."

MARY LATHAM CLARK.
